LAKE COUNTY BUSINESS SERVICES NETWORK OFFERS WORKSHOPS ON WEB SITE DESIGN

LAKE COUNTY, CA — The Lake County Business Services Network and the Yuba College Small Business Development Center is sponsoring two workshops to teach Lake County business owners and nonprofit organizations how to create a basic web site.

Two workshops will be held on Thursday, November 6, at 1:00 p.m. and again at 5:30 p.m. in Lakeport. In addition to the workshops, one-on-one appointments with the instructor are available on Friday, November 7, to give workshop attendees and others with basic web site building skills, more tools and in-depth information.

The workshops will help business owners and non-profits create a web site, research and register a domain name, and show step by step how to create a basic web site. By the end of the workshop, participants will have a web site, and know how to explore different options for web site hosting.

On Friday, one-on-one appointments are available throughout the day to give workshop participants and others with basic web site building skills the tools necessary to maintain, update, and make changes to a web site. Workshop participants are given preference for appointments; however, business owners who already have a basic web site but would like more instruction are invited to take advantage of this opportunity.

The workshops are being led by Mike Saccomano, owner of Saccomano Associates, a web development/marketing company, owner of AwesomeTools.com, and a consultant with the Yuba College Small Business Development Center.
