SPACE STILL AVAILABLE IN WORKSHOPS ON WEB SITE DESIGN OFFERED BY THE LAKE COUNTY BUSINESS SERVICES NETWORK

LAKE COUNTY, CA — The Lake County Business Services Network and the Yuba College Small Business Development Center is offering two workshops to teach Lake County business owners and nonprofit organizations how to create a basic web site.

Spaces are still available in the two workshops on Thursday, November 6, at 1:00 p.m. and again at 5:30 p.m. in Lakeport. A waiting list for the one-on-one appointments on Friday, November 7, which will give workshop attendees and others with basic web site building skills, more tools and in-depth information, has been set up.

The workshops will help business owners and non-profits create a web site, research and register a domain name, and show step by step how to create a basic web site. By the end of the workshop, participants will have a web site, and know how to explore different options for web site hosting.

The workshops are being led by Mike Saccomano, owner of Saccomano Associates, a web development/marketing company, owner of AwesomeTools.com, and a consultant with the Yuba College Small Business Development Center.

Registration for one of Thursday's workshops is $30. The one-on-one appointments to be held on Friday are free of charge, but are currently booked. You can get on the waiting list if a cancellation occurs; preference for these appointments are for workshop participants. The workshops and appointments will be held in Lakeport.
